

The medical examination of Matthew Perry's body has been completed by the Los Angeles County Coroner's office, as the official cause of death is listed as 'Deferred' pending the final results of the examination.

Perry's body is now listed as 'Ready for Release' to his family, so funeral arrangements can be made and he can be laid to rest.

The Medical Examiner's office can release initial results with in days, or it can take 6-8 weeks for final results of toxicology tests to come back.

The status of Perry's body has been updated, since the entry was first made, early Sunday morning, just hours after his body was found unresponsive in his hot tub.
